SUMMER 2020 VIRTUAL COFFEE HOUR & TEACHING WORKSHOPS

Fostering Student Engagement in the Online Classroom
Friday, May 22
Time: 3:00pm--4:30pm

As we continue to tackle the challenge of university-wide remote teaching and learning, we face many questions such as: How do I keep my students engaged in the online classroom? What are some tools and techniques I can use to foster an online learning community? In this workshop, online pedagogy expert and Professor of Instructional Systems and Learning Technologies, Dr. Vanessa Dennen, will discuss best practices in fostering student engagement in the online course with some time for Q&A at the end of the workshop. 🥧

Online Assessment: Exploring the Intricacies of Proctored Testing and Alternatives
Wednesday, July 22

Time: 3:00pm--4:30pm

In online education, assessment of student competency can be a challenging detail in your course design. It is important to choose the variety of testing—proctored, open book, etc.—that is best suited for your class and your course learning objectives. This workshop will feature speakers from FSU's Office of Distance of Learning who will discuss testing tools such as Honorlock, as well as alternatives to online proctored assessment and tips for ensuring online academic integrity. 🥧
